PEONIES

Peonies are one of the most permanent of perennials, and after planting them it is best not to disturb them for at least ten years after being placed in the garden or not until they crowd too much and thus reduce the size of the flowers. With the rating as given with nearly all the varieties of peonies and irises we can gain a very fair knowledge of their position in the estimation of experienced growers and the beginner will make few mistakes in selecting by following the choice of those scoring well in the list. In this list, I use the following abbreviations to save space and yet give an idea of the color and season as follows: (E) early; (M) mid-season; (L) late; (R) red; (W) white; (P) pink.

Prices given cancel all previous lists.

Size of Plants: At prices quoted are for good strong standard divisions, 3 to 5 eyes, in most cases from dividing 2 or 3 year old plants. In some cases I use one year old plants without dividing. I do not recommend so called one eye divisions, but to meet a demand for such, I will supply of any peonies selling for \$3.00 or more. Good 2 eye divisions for $\frac{3}{5}$ the list price for the regular size. My object is to give good value for the money. Not how little, but how much can I afford to give for the price paid, and the repeat orders sent in go to show that my efforts are appreciated. Orders should be sent as early as possible as stock of rarest varieties is limited, and shipments are made in the order received. Please advise whether shipment is to be by express or parcel post.

GUARANTEE

I guarantee safe arrival of plants, and that they are healthy and true to name, and hold myself ready to replace two for one any that prove otherwise.

Cultural Directions

Peonies and Irises thrive in most any soil that is not too wet. Should it be inclined to be acid, a light dressing of lime will be beneficial. Never permit fresh manure to come in contact with the roots. Bone-meal is a safe proposition, and well decomposed barnyard manure may be worked around the plants but not over the crown of the plants. Peonies should be planted $2\frac{1}{2}$ to 3 feet apart, and for field culture rows should be 4 feet apart. The plants should be set so the top buds are 2 to 3 inches below the surface of the soil. Deeper planting may cause shy blooming. September and October are the best months to set peonies, but they may be set any time before the ground freezes. The plants start growth too early to handle well in the spring; we therefore never advise spring setting.

Irises should be planted rather shallow, just covering the rhizome, and both peonies and irises are better planted in the full sunlight away from trees and shrubs and not too close to the walls of a building, although they will endure partial shade. Give good, clean shallow cultivation and you will be rewarded with fine bloom.

Any disinterested party receiving this catalog, by kindly handing it to some friend who may be interested, will confer a double favor.

The following list of my peonies includes double, single and Japanese varieties all in alphabetical order. I could offer a much longer list, but have discarded nearly all that do not grade over 7.5 in a possible 10 or 75% of the perfect flower as rated.

What Varieties to Plant

To aid the novice in making selections, I would state that the following are high grade varieties of moderate cost, and are outstanding good ones that will give satisfaction, and bloom in each color approximately as listed.

White

Festiva Maxima, Mme. Emile Lemoine, Baroness Schroeder, Avalanche, Marie Lemoine.

Light Pink

Eugenie Verdier, Octavie Demay, Germaine Bigot, Albert Crousse, Reine Hortense, Mme. Emile Galle, Milton Hill, Grandiflora.

Dark Pink

Monseur Jules Elie, Claire Dubois.

Red

Adolph Rousseau, Karl Rosenfield, and to extend the season a week later, I would add Rubra Superba although it is not a high scorer and is a shy bloomer on young plants but does well on established plants.
